Corporate Finance - Assignment One Jan 24 2020 Seminar paper from the year 2002 in the subject Business economics - Investment and Finance, grade: 1 (A), Manchester Metropolitan University Business School (Corporate Finance), language: English, abstract: Investment project evaluation is an important matter for companies. There are often a variety of different investment opportunities amongst which a company can choose or there is the problem of capital rationing in which limited capital is available for investment. Whatever the particular problem, companies need tools to aid them in selecting the correct opportunity, so that the maximum possible value will be added and they need to be able to do so without referring back to the shareholders and to ask them for their particular preferences. There are various methods of investment appraisal, of which three will be discussed and implemented here in order to supply the company directors with the best possible advice. The first being the Net Present Value (NPV) calculation that considers relevant future cash flows and subsequently discounts them at the opportunity cost of capital (the Internal Rate of Return (IRR) is similar and will be discussed in more detail later) and the other being the Accounting Rate of Return (ARR) that bases its analysis upon pure, non-discounted, accounting data.

Educational Innovation in Economics and Business V Jun 09 2021 The Information and Communication Technology revolution results in profound changes to the heart of business and economics. Changes in the workplace, new communication technology, new organizational structures, and new production technologies force business educators to renew their focus on the curricula of business schools. There is no doubt these changes influence business education and instructional technology. But change will go far beyond the mere introduction of technology in the classroom. Alliances between the corporate world and business education are no longer fictitious but are necessary to establish stronger bonds between educational systems and the workplace. The fifth volume in the series Educational Innovation in Economics and Business contains a unique selection of articles addressing various issues on how business education should adapt to changing needs of the corporate world. It is meant for educators in corporate training centers, and for teachers in further and higher education.

Intermediate Accounting Aug 31 2020 Intermediate Accounting is changing the way instructors teach and students learn. The text provides students with a core body of knowledge on the traditional financial preparation issues—including the most recent pronouncements from the accounting standards boards and the implications of Sarbanes-Oxley—yet offers a streamlined approach more conceptual in nature than other texts. Authors Curt Norton, Mike Diamond, and Don Pagach recognize that the role of the accountant has expanded well beyond basic recording and reporting functions. Accounting professionals must lead businesses and interpret the implications of business transactions and industry events. This text responds to the demands students will face as future accountants, enabling them to think critically and to understand the "why" of accounting as well as the "how." The Second Edition integrates current accounting standards and combines print and electronic resources to ensure that students can practice the skills they need to succeed in the course. Within each chapter, the integration of financial statements from real companies provides a basis for comparison and analysis, while "Point/Counterpoint" features present contrasting perspectives on controversial accounting topics. Through CPA Exam Simulations and other web-based activities, students conduct research, prepare reports, communicate financial information, and apply critical-thinking and decision-making skills. This streamlined text presents a core body of knowledge, verified through research with academicians and practitioners. While maintaining a preparer-based approach, the text introduces a user orientation that emphasizes analysis and interpretation of financial statements. New! The Second Edition has been updated to include all the latest FASB statements and opinions. Current accounting standards have been fully integrated to ensure all data, examples, and end of chapter assignments are current and accurate. In the Second Edition, several companies featured in the chapter-opening "Financial Reporting Cases" have been replaced to highlight recent events and trends in business accounting. For instance, Nike replaces Transmeta in the chapter on "Intangible Assets," with a look at how Nike's purchase of Converse counted on the intangibles brought by Converse's "retro" style comeback. The authors introduce cash flow early in the text—in Chapter 5—and again in Chapter 19, while integrating the topic throughout all the chapters. Updated! "Point/Counterpoint" features, which present the opposing viewpoints of prominent financial professionals on controversial accounting topics, have been updated to include coverage of stock options. Chapter 18 on "Dilutive Securities and Earnings per Share" has been significantly revised to address changes to share-based compensation made in FASB Statement No. 123. Revised in 2004, this statement now requires fair-value accounting for employee stock options. Chapter-ending CPA-adapted simulations model the simulations found on the new Uniform CPA exam. In addition, through a partnership with Efficient Learning Systems/CPAexcel, students using Intermediate Accounting will have access to online simulations that function in the same way as CPA exam simulations. CPAexcel also allows students to practice other skills and sequences required on the new CPA exam, with feedback and assessment that let students know where they need to focus their review efforts. Coverage of ethics and corporate responsibility issues includes dedicated chapter sections on ethics; critical-thinking questions tied to learning objectives; end-of-chapter cases; and unique "Point/Counterpoint" features, which present the opposing viewpoints of prominent financial professionals on controversial accounting topics. "Check Your Understanding" review questions at the end of each major section offer the opportunity for concise, step-by-step reinforcement of section topics before moving on to the next section. End-of-chapter assignment materials—while requiring students to prepare statements and solve problems based on quantitative data—also include skills-based components designed to develop students' communication, research, analysis, and decision-making skills. Bridge tutorial software integrated with the text's review chapter (Chapter 1) includes a series of interactive tutorials designed to reinforce accounting transactions, review the debit/credit mechanism, and provide a foundation for the preparation of financial statements. Part of the eStudy CD and automatically packaged with new Intermediate Accounting texts, this resource helps close the gap between introductory and intermediate accounting.
